

It's a mirror.

At first sight our new idea may not look so revolutionary.

It's a simple mirror, slim profile, choice of frame, the sort of thing which would look good anywhere.

The perfect reflection of its surroundings you could say.

But then you hit the remote control.

And suddenly it's not a mirror, it's a window on the world.

It's a tv.

Behind that perfect mirror is a Hitachi plasma screen, as well as a range of 20-46" LCD panels with in-built tuners and a range of external connectors.

So it can give you a pin sharp picture from TV, satellite, cable, DVD, and AV system or PC.

Sound can come from integrated stereo speakers or pre-amplified connectors to external sound.

Everything you'd expect from the very best wall-mounted thin screen TV.

Except when you switch it off.

Then it's a mirror again.

It's anything you want.

Cleverer still, our MirrorTV can be combined with an in-built fully compatible multimedia computer, so you can access web or e-mail, run PowerPoint presentations and corporate videos and store and play MP3 audio or MPEG video files.

It can be controlled or updated via the internet, WAN or intranet and with an integrated wireless LAN it doesn't even need to be plugged in.

Imagine that in your hotel, restaurant, shop or office.

You could use it to sell today's special offer, to trail special events and even to present a bill or today's menu.
